KDOL Posters for Kansas Employers

Required posters available free of charge

TOPEKA – Kansas employers are required by state and federal law to display certain posters in the workplace where they can be viewed by employees. All posters are available free of charge through the Kansas Department of Labor (KDOL). They are found online at www.dol.ks.gov/es/posters.html

"We want to ensure Kansas employers have up-to-date resources they need to meet federal and state requirements," said Karin Brownlee, KDOL Secretary. "Employers may get solicitations to purchase these required posters, but they need to know there are no-cost options available through our website. As a customer service, we are pleased to offer this essential information free of charge."

These posters can be found and printed off through the KDOL website. The required Kansas state posters include information on the Kansas Indoor Clean Air Act, unemployment insurance, workers compensation, child labor laws, and equal opportunity in employment guidelines. Required Federal posters may vary by business.
